

AMENDMENTS TO THE SPECIFICATION:

Page 1, replace the paragraph beginning on line 14 with the following amended paragraph:

--A drive through system capable of shopping in an automobile has been a merchandise purchase system which saves troubles or time in driver's parking, getting on/off a bicycle, or transporting merchandises. This has been applied to intelligent transport systems (ITS) to realize the drive through system in which an ITS terminal device in a car is used to ~~browse~~ browse detailed merchandise information or to make a payment in a cashless manner.--

Page 1, replace the paragraph beginning on line 24 with the following amended paragraph:

--A first problem is that an order is placed after reaching a store, and a period of time is therefore required until the merchandise can be prepared. This is a waste of time for a user who wants to receive the merchandise soon, and therefore a degree of satisfaction has dropped.--
